

PM drug fund axe

A CANCER fund set up by David Cameron to help patients get new drugs is to be scrapped.

It follows claims pharmaceutical firms overcharged for the medicines.

The Cancer Drugs Fund was a PM initiative launched in 2011 to let patients try drugs not yet approved for the NHS.

But the £200million-a-year budget soared to £340million and docs said it was diverting cash from other treatments.

England's top medic Sir Bruce Keogh accused drug firms of rip-offs.

The NHS has unveiled plans to replace it with a system that pays only for drugs proven to work.

Becky bro killer plea

THE brother of Becky Watts says her killer deserves to die in jail.

Becky's stepbrother Nathan Matthews, 28, targeted the 16-year-old in a sexually-motivated crime and was jailed for a minimum of 33 years.

But her brother Daniel Watts, 20, said the sentence was "not enough".

He added: "He will be 61 when he gets out and he will still be looking for teenagers. He's just gone in the head."

When asked what would be justice for Becky, of Bristol, Mr Watts replied: "Him dead. Throw him in a room with our family and then watch what happens."

Wowie... Towie's Fernie

By JEN PHARO, TV Features Editor

THINGS got steamy in the I'm A Celebrity jungle last night as reality TV stars Vicky Pattison and Fernie McCann stripped down to skimpy bikinis.

They had just completed the Dancing With Death challenge, along with Made In Chelsea's Spencer Matthews, 26.

It involved having their heads and arms encased in perspex boxes alongside various critters. When rats began nibbling her toes, Geordie Shore beauty Vicky, 28, kept her cool and said calmly: "They're just like big hamsters."

But Towie loudmouth Fernie, 25, freaked out when a python touched her arm, yelling: "It's breathing on me!"

Her hilarious reaction got her dubbed the new Helen Flanagan – the former Coronation Street actress screeched her way through the show in 2012.

Trials boss Matt Wilkinson said it put Fernie in the ranks of scaredy-cats Helen, Dean Gaffney and Paul Burrell.

He said: "In my three years of doing the trials Fernie McCann's reaction is Gaffney-esque. It is unbelievable."

And, also like Helen, Fernie looks pretty hot in a bikini.

IN JUNGLE

Oh dear! My swimsuit seems to have shrunk again

JORGIE Porter looks the McQueen of the jungle as she again takes a shower in a skimpy white cossie. The Hollyoaks actress, 27, who plays Theresa McQueen in the C4 soap, showed off her curves in a pose to rival Myleene Klass's 2006 moment.

Testicle cocktail is sickener

I'M a Celebrity bosses are making all campmates suffer tonight's "sickest" live trial — after six testers vomited in rehearsals.

Bushtucker Trial guru Matt Wilkinson was amazed when the stricken stand-ins threw up bulls' testicles cocktails and other grizzly drinks.

Two teams will go head to head in Cocktails and Screams as they down a pint of the vile ingredients.

Matt revealed: "We had six out of 13 people be sick in the dry run."

tame and replaced it with something that actually had two of the people being sick.

"It's called a Bull-ini and it's blended bulls' testicles. I'd say the emu liver and the bulls' testicles are the worst. It's hands down the sickest trial we've ever done on the programme."

"As soon as they put the glass down they realised what they've just drunk and that's when they start being sick."

The loser or slowest drinker tonight will be dunked into a vat of freezing cold water.
