

Wayne Sleep stuns CBB housemates with hilarious drag make-over as Miss Trunchbull

The ex-dancer was given a rather dramatic transformation by fellow tenant Courtney Act...

The show's other cast-members were left slack-jawed by the sudden prank, which left many praising Sleep for having such good legs.

Evidently proud of his handy work, Courtney - real name Shane Jenek - was seen cheering in the background.

But there was also some shade to the episode's lightness.

In emotional scenes, the pensioner was seen discussing his prostate cancer diagnosis, which occurred back in 2005.

He is, of course, a professional entertainer.

But Wayne Sleep cranked that up a notch for his Celebrity Big Brother housemates last night - as viewers witnessed first-hand.

The 69-year-old stunned his fellow tenants on Tuesday night when he emerged from the bedroom as Miss Trunchbull from Roald Dahl's Matsie.

And, perhaps unsurprisingly, Courtney Act was heavily involved in the process.

Dubbed a 'dragformation', the ex-dancer was seen sporting a full face of make-up and wore a blonde wig up in a taut bun.

Striding around the surveillance home in a blue blazer and coral-coloured jumper dress, he was a good sport and gleefully embodied his new role.

"I had an operation overnight. Go in that day, next day recovery, left the next morning. Get on with it," he told Amanda Barrie.

But he also admitted that a second diagnosis could mean impotence.

"I don't like to think if it comes back, because then I'll have to have the whole thing out. And that's sort of the end of my sex life," he continued.
