

Oi Pixie!

Take out

the trash

CHORES:
Ann after Pixie told her who she is

■ by BENJAMIN POTTER

A RED-faced café owner failed to recognise Pixie Lott and asked her to take out the bins!

Oblivious Ann Morrish was opening up when she noticed the pop princess and a man walking towards her.

Making use of the extra pairs of hands, Ann, 59, asked if they would mind quickly helping her set up the furniture.

And, after asking them to clear refuse, she then told the double-platinum selling singer turned West End star that she should audition for The X Factor.

Ann realised her error when Pixie replied to say she had actually been a judge on the ITV show. Ann, who owns the Liner Lookout in Plymouth, said: "She told me she had been a guest judge on X Factor."

"I asked her her name and she replied Pixie. I said: 'Pixie what?' and she said, 'Pixie Lott.'"

"I looked at her and said: 'Oh no. I am so sorry!' She was so lovely."

"She was wearing no make-up, and was just a normal, nice girl. She was so, so nice."

Pixie, 25, was in Plymouth while playing the character of Holly Golightly in Breakfast At Tiffany's at the Theatre Royal and was at the café for breakfast.

Ann added: "I think I gave her a table to put outside and asked them to put a bin by the wall."

*benjamin.potter@
dailystar.co.uk*

NO BREAKFAST FOR TIFFANY

STAGE STAR: As Holly