Sir Tom and the timeless appeal of Tiffany's

WHAT'S new, pussycat? A new production of Breakfast at Tiffany's, of course. Last night Welsh crooner Sir Tom Jones, pictured right, paid a visit to the Theatre Royal Haymarket to watch the stage adaptation of Truman Capote's novella. In the show singer Pixie Lott, pictured with Sir Tom, plays Audrey Hepburn's Holly Golightly.

"The only thing that does any good is to jump in a cab and go to Tiffany's," Golightly states in the Sixties classic. "Calms me down right away. The quietness and the proud look of it; nothing very bad could happen to you there."

The Londoner goes to Waitrose.

LAST week it was reported that David Cameron's proposals for resignation honours had faltered at the first hurdle of Cabinet approval, with some Tory figures, according to The Sun, "irritated" by the former PM's hopes of rewarding personal friends with titles. But surely he wouldn't go as far as family?

That's the question going around White's, the private members' club of which Cameron was a member – his late father Ian was chairman – before resigning due to its no-women rule. But one family member is still signed up: Sir Reginald Sheffield, pictured, father of Samantha Cameron. He's a regular and

■ IN 2001 Kate Moss gave a rare interview to Jefferson Hack for his mag Dazed and Confused. Changing his usual tack of flattery, Jefferson said to her: "You smell of pee." Disarmed, the supermodel went on to have a daughter with him. Kate has just been announced as the face of Charlotte Tilbury's new fragrance Scent of a Dream. Presumably Tilbury hasn't been comparing notes with Jefferson.

LIGHT your cigars, a new heir to Soho is imminent. Yesterday India Rose James, the granddaughter of porn baron Paul Raymond, checked into the private Portland Hospital ready to welcome her first child with fiancé and Kooks guitarist Hugh Harris.

James, who owns the Soho Revue Gallery, shared an image on Instagram of her reclining in a hospital bed, pictured. "Not long now," she wrote, noting that she was "high as a kite" on labour medications.

She is in good hands: the Portland has seen the birth
