

COLLABRO 'HOME' ALBUM LAUNCH

We had the absolute pleasure of being invited to a very special album launch party of the delightful Collabro at the luxurious Sanctum Hotel, Soho. We were greeted by lovely tall glasses of white wine and a wide range of canapé that whetted our appetite and a room full of lovely and familiar faces (Gemma Oaten, Andy West, Sandi & Sandra from Gogglebox and many, many more)... however it was the lovely Collabro boys we were excited for and it was not long until the four men descended onto the stage.

All dressed in dashing suits, they opened their set on the beautiful 'This is the Moment' from the Jekyll & Hyde musical and was absolutely transcending and breathtaking... if you think the studio version is all kinds of wonderful, you must experience it live! Next up is the beautiful 'Beauty & The Beast' and it's a refreshing take on an original classic that ended in a slight Angela Lansbury adaptation... were kidding, but one of the guys did make a reference to the fabulous Dame.

Afterwards, they took a moment to reflect upon their new album (out now) and gave a beautiful performance of their original number 'Lighthouse' and we wept... like we actually had tears streaking down our face. It's a really uplifting and beautiful track and the boys are just amazing.

They did a brief meet and greet after the show before running off to do another show at The Hippodrome! Two shows in one night... what sports! Check out the new record 'Home' available now.
